

Told in 90 Seconds

Webinar Fundraiser

A person goes missing every 90 seconds in the UK, that means by the time you have finished reading this post there will be heartbreak for another family.

Told in 90 Seconds is a science communication competition hosted by BAFA to raise money and awareness for the Missing People charity. The aim of the competition is not only to support the charity but also to bring the real work and challenges of forensic anthropologists into the public eye and to help those working in the area to develop their science communication skill.

The competition challenges students, academics and practitioners from forensic anthropology and associated subject areas to share a snapshot of their work such as a case study or research project, told in 90 seconds. These will then be viewed by non-specialist audiences and a panel of Judges.

- ❑ All talks should be recorded in MP4 format and sent to academic@bafa.uk by 21st March along with proof of a donation to the Missing People charity
- ❑ All talks must be captioned and edited to a strict maximum of 90 seconds and no longer.
- ❑ The talks should be aimed at non-specialist audiences and titled "XXX told in 90 Seconds"
- ❑ The speaker themselves should be the main focus of the talk (rather than a PowerPoint) although one video, slide or image can be used to support

The talks will be judged on:

- ❑ Use of Time
- ❑ Presentation Skills
- ❑ Ability to Engage the Audience
- ❑ Forensic Anthropology Content

www.bafa.uk

#90seconds

Twitter: @BAFA.UK

LinkedIn: <https://bit.ly/2Js0fRD>

<https://www.justgiving.com/campaign/90-90-90>